

SEVEN PERISH WHEN HOUSE BURNS

BUTLER WILL EXPLAIN INSULT

MUSSOLINI DENIES CHARGES; APOLOGY MAY BE NECESSARY

Hot-Headed Marine Charges Premier Is Hit-Skip Driver

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, the dashing marine officer and vice crusader for Philadelphia during one of his leaves of absence, held the attention today of the government and military officials as well as the diplomatic corps.

All are wondering how he will explain alleged remarks some newspapers said he made about Premier Mussolini in a speech last week in Philadelphia which have resulted in an international tangle of no small proportion.

Butler was busy at his headquarters at the Quantico (Va.) marine barracks outlining the explanation he will send Maj. Gen. Ben Fuller, commandant of the marine corps.

His explanation demanded by Secretary of the Navy Adams will decide whether an apology will be sent to Italy's premier for "slandering" and whether action will be taken against him.

According to the complaint Noble Giacomo De Martino, Italy's ambassador to the United States, left with the state department, Butler is alleged to have resorted to gossip in the course of his speech before Philadelphia's contemporary club Jan. 19.

His purported heresy story accused Italy's premier of being a hit-and-run motorist and it soon reached Mussolini's ears in Rome. Acting in characteristic style the premier immediately had the Italian foreign office cable the embassy here a denial of Butler's remarks.

And the cablegram added that Premier Mussolini never made a motor tour of Rome with an American as his guest—as the newspapers quoted Butler as saying—and that the premier has never run over any child, man or woman; that if any accident of this sort had happened, signor Mussolini would have stopped and brought help.

Butler was quoted as making the following statement:

"A friend of mine said he had a ride in a new auto with Mussolini, a car with an armored nose that could knock over fences and slip under barbed wire.

He said they drove through the country and toward a city at seventy miles an hour. They ran over a child and my friend screamed. Mussolini said he shouldn't do that; that it was only one life and the affairs of the state couldn't be stopped by one life. How can you talk disarmament with a man like that?"

The press accounts also reported Butler as saying there are "mad dog" nations in Europe who refuse to sign international agreements or else will sign them and refuse to abide by their terms.

Officials at the navy department revealed that no specific regulation covers the Butler incident. The general instructions, broadly speaking, call for courteous and honorable treatment of all foreign government attaches, prohibiting, of course, "undue utterances." They authorize court of "extreme violation." It will rest with naval officials to determine whether Butler's alleged assertion was an "extreme violation."

The marine officer has been a stormy petrel in service ranks for some years. When he was "loaned" to Philadelphia to "clean up" the town some years ago he was the object of praise and censure. He drew attention later as commandant of the San Diego, Cal., Marine base when he preferred charges against one of his officers for taking a drink at a private dance. Last year a government inquiry absolved him of connection with assertions the United States had no right to detail marines to Nicaragua.

BILL AUTHORIZING SUNDAY MOVIES IS OFFERED IN SENATE

May Precipitate Blue Law Fight; Marshall Is Sponsor

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28.—A long blue-law fight was promised in the Ohio legislature today when Senator L. L. Marshall (R) of Cleveland, prepared to introduce a bill to legalize Sunday movies.

Admitting that the bill is designed to prevent quarrels between ministerial associations and theater operators, such as is now in progress at New Philadelphia, Senator Marshall declared he is armed with answers for "the hundreds of critics that will storm the state house to oppose me."

Movies would be placed on the same status as Sunday baseball if the bill is adopted, Marshall said. Christian Science practitioners would be allowed to charge a fee for their services in a bill proposed by Senator August W. Weber (D) of Columbus, presaging another fight between opposing divisions of the church.

Only surgeons or physicians may charge fees for treatment under the law which Senator Weber hopes to alter.

Amendment to the constitution to give all elective executive officers four-year terms is asked in a bill introduced by Senator Robert A. Taft (R) of Cincinnati.

The proposed amendment would be placed before voters at the November election for their approval or disapproval.

A similar bill had been planned by Senator J. G. Lowery (R) of New Concord, dean of the college of education at Muskingum College.

Kidnaping Feared In Disappearance Of Rich Man's Son

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28.—Pressing a special squad of detectives into action, W. G. Shellenbarger, head of the Columbus detective bureau, today took personal charge of the search for four-year-old John S. Inskeep, son of a wealthy northside resident, who has been missing since early Tuesday afternoon.

Fate of the lad—whether it was drowning or kidnaping—was a mystery as groups of Boy Scouts and neighbors residing in the exclusive West Dunedin Road section joined in an organized hunt.

Descriptions of the child were broadcast throughout the city and police were ordered to be on the lookout for the boy.

W. A. Inskeep Jr., a prominent Columbus optometrist, father of the missing child, was at a loss to explain his son's disappearance, other than to believe that the boy may have been drowned in the Olentangy River.

"I don't know what motive for kidnaping the boy would be, if he was kidnaped," the father told authorities. "I have no enemies as far as I know, who would want to make me suffer through him. I just don't know what to make of it. He has completely disappeared."

Police and firemen made preparations to drag the Olentangy River for the child's body when they learned from his playmates that he told them he wanted "to go to the river and swim."

Theories of kidnaping were also advanced by the party of searchers but none of these could be substantiated. It was thought at first that the boy aimlessly wandered away from his paternal home overlooking the Olentangy River. When the extensive search failed to find any trace of the missing lad, this theory was practically abandoned.

As far as relatives and authorities could determine, Johnny was last seen about 1 p. m. Tuesday in the company of a playmate, Bobby Martin, 6. Another playmate, Curtis Beck, 4, said that he left Johnny and Bobby when they said they were going to the river.

Bobby returned home a short while later. Conflicting reports of the children and their parents made it difficult for the searchers to establish any positive clues.

ENDORSE GANDHI'S PROGRAM

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28.—Approval of Mahatma Gandhi's "passive resistance" program may be voiced in the Ohio House of representatives today.

A resolution asking such action was introduced last night by Representative Freer Bittenger of Ashland, Democratic floor leader. His resolution follows:

"Whereas, the officials of India have seen fit to release Mahatma Gandhi from his unjust imprisonment; therefore

"Be it resolved by the 89th General Assembly of Ohio: That we go on record as commending the action of Mahatma Gandhi in his effort to obtain liberty, freedom and self-government for the people of India; and we believe that the concession in liberating him demonstrates that the spirit of liberty is alive in the world."

Although admitting the resolution to be a little unusual for the Ohio legislature, Representative Bittenger said it is both timely and worthy.

LONE BANDIT ROBS WASHINGTON BANK OF $1,800 AND ESCAPES

WASHINGTON, C. H., O., Jan. 28.—A youthful gunman who held up four employees and two customers of the First National Bank here and escaped with $1,800, was sought by Fayette County authorities today.

The bandit entered the bank alone. Three employees were working and two customers were waiting at the cages. Cashier J. R. Burton was in a rear room talking with two other customers when he heard someone shout, "holdup."

As Burton rushed to the front of the bank, he was met by the robber who commanded him to hold up his hands and get into one of the cages. The customers were also forced into a cage.

Threatening to shoot if an attempt was made to sound an alarm, the bandit scooped up all the money in the cashier's drawer and backed out of the bank to an automobile. Leaping into the car, he sped away toward Dayton.

CHICAGO GANG HOODLUM SLAIN

Four Assassins Flee After Shooting

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Firing several volleys of shots from a waiting automobile, four assassins today shot and killed Morris Berkowitz, 27-year-old west side hoodlum, as he emerged from a restaurant.

Four shots were heard as Berkowitz started across the street alone. Witnesses gathered to find the gangster lying dead in the gutter, shot twice through the head and once in the neck. The killing occurred at a busy intersection.

The slayers' automobile raced away as Berkowitz staggered and fell.

Less than a block away Howard Berkowitz, the victim's brother, was slain by gunmen in September, 1925. Police, seeking a motive for the killing, recalled that today's victim had been a witness against his brother's alleged slayer, Robert "Pudgy" Stamm, who was sent to Joliet penitentiary for one year to life in 1926 for the killing.

PROHIBITION ISSUE IN SENATE SIDETRACKED; BAR HOWELL BILL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—The prohibition issue, though agitating the whole nation, was being pushed into the background in the senate today with both wets and drys apparently anxious to avoid a showdown.

This development in the strategy of the perennial prohibition war on Capitol Hill was noted when drys quietly permitted the drastic Howell bill, proposing bone-dry enforcement for the national capital, to be sidetracked without a fight.

Their surrender virtually killed the bill, since it set a precedent for abandoning the measure every time an appropriation bill comes before the senate. This will place a stubborn obstacle before the measures, as the senate still must act upon six more appropriation bills and twelve conference reports.

The prohibition issue will be raised from time to time, but unless there is a change of sentiment again, a showdown appears unlikely in the present session. There will be one flareup when the department of justice appropriation bill reaches the dry bureau. Even then, administration leaders do not anticipate more than a skirmish.

Other skirmishes may occur over the tidying resolutions, one proposing an inquiry into how the Wickersham commission reached its conclusions and wet on comparisons, the other calling on commission to make public report from expert investigators. Senator Tydings (D) of Maryland wet leader, announced he would force a showdown on both resolutions, but has avoided such a contest when the opportunity offered on several occasions.

Observers attributed this change in strategy of both the wet and dry camps to several causes. One, that administration drys, recalling how the nation rebelled against the drastic Jones "5 and 10" law, may repudiate the more drastic legislation which merely make the dry law more unpopular and that the best solution is to win honest enforcement.

Other bills before the house are one for the establishment of "credit unions" under the supervision of the state banking department. The measure was introduced by Rep. Earl Johnson (R) of Pennsylvania.

If enacted into law, the bill would permit employees, members of a fraternal organization, and farmers to form "unions" for the purpose of selling stock to members, investing the proceeds, and making loans to members.

A study of conditions existing in the court of justices of the peace and of city and village mayors, as well as other inferior courts throughout the state is provided for in a joint resolution introduced by Rep. Lawrence A. Kane (D), Cincinnati.

WHITE APPOINTEES CONFIRMED; OTHER QUESTIONS REMAIN

Taxation, Prohibition Are Still Facing Governor

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28.—Two problems—taxation and prohibition—remained to heckle Governor George White today following senate confirmation, over the protests of organized labor, of his appointment of Thomas A. Edmondson, of Urbana, as state director of industrial relations.

The prohibition bugaboo was wrapped up in the governor's selection of L. L. Faris of Lynchburg, for prohibition commissioner.

Despite Mr. White's expression that Faris "was a little over-zealous to Democrats," but not guilty of "anything serious," or of "moral turpitude" while secretary of the state civil service commission eighteen years ago, there seemed to be a rising tide of protest against his appointment.

The taxation problem facing the governor was centered in the increased determination of Republican leaders to force the chief executive to take a personal responsibility for tax legislation after Democratic senators hurried to his rescue yesterday with a minority tax committee plan opposed to the G. O. P. scheme.

Faris' critics, including Charles Bryson of Athens, a member of the civil service commission when Faris was secretary, charged that he advanced Democratic names above their rightful position in the eligibility list.

With this opposition, the governor has launched an investigation of Faris' record and has announced that he is "in no hurry to decide."

Should the governor finally and definitely decide upon Faris, opponents of his appointment will carry their fight to the senate committee that will consider the selection. It was indicated.

A showdown on the long-delayed tax committee question was expected this afternoon when a vote was to be taken on the adoption of the majority report giving the governor the right "if he so desires" to appoint three members of the special tax commission which will help legislators draw up tax bills.

Democratic leaders indicated they would fight the plan "tooth and nail," on the grounds that the Republicans are trying to "put the governor in a hole."

The Republican reply, however, is that the governor and the Democrats are trying to dodge responsibility for any tax law promulgated.

Governor White won his second appointment victory yesterday when the senate ignored threats of organized labor and confirmed the Edmondson appointment, which labor leaders hinted a week ago was impossible.

Edmondson's backers mustered eighteen votes, one more than was necessary for confirmation. Senators Joseph N. Ackerman (R) of Cleveland, John P. Bower (D) of Pennsylvania, Roy J. Gillen (R) of Westport, John A. Lloyd (R) of Portsmouth, and Nils P. Johnson (R) of Youngstown, voted against the appointee.

Six Republicans refused to vote for or against Edmondson. They were Robert L. Rohe of Tiffin, C. J. Anderson and John F. Edgar, Jr. of St. Clairsville, Frank E. Whittemore of Akron, J. G. Lowery of New Concord, and Walter G. Nickels, of New Philadelphia.

James A. Reynolds, the governor's spokesman in the senate, also did not cast a vote.

The senate Monday confirmed the governor's selection of Edward J. Hopple, Cleveland, for a member of the public utilities commission.

FATHER, SIX CHILDREN TRAPPED; MOTHER AND INFANT BADLY BURNED

Another Child Less Seriously Burned; Mystery Clouds Origin Of Blaze In Remodelled Log Home; Start Probe

POWYS, Pa., Jan. 28.—Fire of undetermined origin today swept through a remodelled log home here, turning the building into a holocaust and virtually wiping out the family of Clyde Smith, 53.

Trapped in the flames, Smith and six of his children were burned to death.

The dead, in addition to Smith, are: Marion, 16; Frederick, 15; Darinda, 14; Catherine, 11; Max, 6; and Gerald, 4.

Two other children, Howard, 9, and Mahlan, 2 years old, were rescued from the house by their mother who was so badly burned that she was not expected to live.

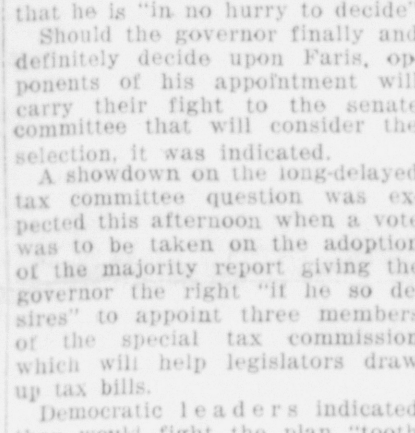

The baby, Mahlan, also was badly burned and was hurried to a

Williamsport Hospital with his mother. Howard's injuries are believed to be less serious.

Officials who launched an immediate investigation into the blaze were mystified concerning its origin.

Mrs. Smith, whose nightgown was burned from her body as she fled the blazing building with the two children, told local officials there had been no heating fire in the house.

FLOATING BONDS TO PAY COMPENSATION OPPOSED BY MELLON

Would Disorganize Markets Treasury Secretary Says

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Complete disorganization of the government and other security markets with serious consequences not only to the public credit but the entire economic structure of the United States would result from the flotation of $3,400,000,000 in bonds necessary to finance cast payment of the face value of veterans' adjusted service certificates. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon told the senate finance committee today.

Mellon appeared at a hearing on bills proposing payment of the bonus immediately as a means to ward stimulation of business and relief of veterans out of work.

In connection the government finances, Mellon disclosed that the treasury now anticipates a deficit of $375,000,000 during the fiscal year ending June 30, that the public debt will be reduced only $65,000,000 and that income tax receipts may fall below estimates.

Referring to the bond issue Mellon said:

"Coming at this time such action would seriously retard a business recovery, and so prolong unemployment, which today is bringing misery and want to so many of our fellow countrymen."

"How the veterans and their families, who after all are an inseparable part of the American people and whose prosperity and welfare are inextricably bound up with the prosperity and welfare of all, can hope to find relief and improvement in their condition from the universal and destructive consequences which these measures would entail is beyond comprehension."

Mellon said that it must be obvious that the sale of government securities in such volume at a much higher interest rate than the yield based on the price at which government bonds are now selling, must immediately depreciate very materially the price of all United States bonds. He estimated that over $1,000,000,000 of government securities now outstanding are held by individuals who invested in them as one of the safest and most stable securities in the world.

"They would suffer a large loss in value," Mellon continued. "The insurance companies are responsible for the savings of millions of Americans and are substantial holders of government securities. Millions of policy holders will be compelled to make a heavy contribution in the way of depreciation of capital values."

FORD SMOOTHNESS

The new Ford has more than twenty ball and roller bearings

EVIDENCE of the high quality built into the new Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all—an unusually large number. Each bearing is adequate in size and carefully selected for the work it has to do. At some points in the Ford chassis you will find ball bearings. At others, roller bearings are used regardless of their higher cost. The deciding factor is the performance of the car. The extensive use of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford insures smoother operation, saves gasoline, increases speed and power, gives quicker pick-up, decreases noise, and gives greater reliability and longer life to vital moving parts. Other outstanding features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, the extensive use of fine steel forgings, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

WITHHOLD ACTION OF CANADA PROTEST

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 28.—Prime Minister Bennett of Canada will make no formal representations to Washington until he returns early next week from his visit to President Hoover. It was stated today, as developments in connection with the slaying of Capt. William Chubb by American coastguards were under consideration.

Steps were taken to obtain testimony of Canadian survivors on board the run runner Josephine K. captured by the coastguard off the Jersey coast after the captain had been killed by shells from the pursuing coastguards.

Efforts also were being made to determine exactly the position at sea of pursued and pursuer when the coastguard closed with the run boat.

Everything depends on this evidence, according to Canadian officials, as serious disagreement in stories of American coastguardsmen and the crew of Canadian ship Josephine K. was anticipated.

FILLING STATION DESTROYED BY FIRE

Loss, estimated at $8,000, resulted when a filling station owned by Joseph Galeksa and operated by B. F. Dyer, located on State Route 4, two and one-half miles northeast of Fairfield, burned to the ground early Sunday morning.

The loss is partly covered by insurance.

The blaze was discovered about 12:45 a. m. but had gained such headway that it was impossible to check it. Fire departments from Osborn and Fairfield were summoned and kept nearby buildings from catching on fire.

Dyer, who operated a restaurant and grocery in connection with the filling station, estimated his loss at $2,000 while Galeksa's loss will amount to nearly $6,000.

AUTHOR DIES

URBANA, O., Jan. 28.—Charles Francis O'Brien, 51, a native of Urbana, died at his home in New York City after a short illness according to word received here today by relatives. He was a graduate of Ohio State University and earned wide recognition as an author of World War history.

CHILDREN'S COLDS DOUBLY DANGEROUS WITH FLU AROUND

While there is no cause for serious alarm over the development of scattered cases of flu in this locality, health authorities say that extra precautions should be taken to check every cold at the start. Unless treated promptly, colds tend to lower body resistance and may pave the way for an attack of influenza with all its serious complications.

Internal medication should be avoided except on the advice of a physician. Too much "dosing" often disturbs the digestion and lowers the vitality just when the child needs its body-strength most.

Applied externally, Vicks VapoRub can be used freely and as often as needed with no fear of upsetting the stomach.

Rubbed on throat and chest, Vicks acts thru the skin like a poultice or plaster, drawing out the tightness and soreness. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are inhaled direct to the irritated air-passages, loosening the phlegm, and soothing the irritation.

Of course, Vicks two-way action is just as effective for adults' cold-troubles, too. Don't take chances with colds NOW! Adv.

THREE BANDITS ROB MEETING OF CHURCH SOCIETY IN CHICAGO

Attend Meeting For Time, Then Line-Up Their Victims

CHICAGO, Jan. 28.—Three systematic bandits went about their work undisturbed by the shrieks of their women victims as they cornered twenty-eight men and fifteen women in St. Hedwig's Church, robbing their victims after terrorizing them for nearly an hour.

Posing as members, the three bandits entered the church and took part in the monthly meeting of Community Club No. 1 of the Polish Catholic Union of America. As a temporary chairman called for nominations for president one bandit drew a revolver and shouted:

"Hands up."

Three revolvers were turned on the crowd and the victims were lined up against the wall where they were forced to come forward one at a time and deposit their cash and valuables on a table. Only money was taken.

The shrieks of several women failed to shake the gunmen's calm as they went about their task. Four women fainted. After forty-five minutes of systematic search the gunmen backed to the door and escaped.

Police estimated the loot to be more than $100 in cash.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Steve Phillips, popular Xenia starting judge, who knows just about all there is to know about this phase of harness racing, has talked the stewards of the Ohio Shortship Racing Association into using the barrier system of getting the trotters and pacers away the coming season.

Steve put up such a convincing argument in favor of the plan at the recent meeting of stewards of the association at Marion, O., that he won his case. As a result the barrier plan will be given a trial during the thirteen-week summer program of the circuit, which is comprised of ten cities, including Wapakoneta, O., Grand Rapids, Mich., Fort Wayne, Ind., Green-ville, Marion, Mansfield, Elvira, North Randall, Kalamazoo, Mich., and Urbana.

The season opens at Urbana May 25 and winds up with a five-day meeting at the North Randall track, beginning August 17.

The Xenia starter has long been a proponent of the barrier idea; in fact Steve was responsible for introduction of the system in harness racing in this country, although the barrier is extensively, almost universally used in harness racing in European countries.

Steve has frequently started harness horses from a barrier in the South and he once was given permission to try it out for three days at Coshen, N. Y., in a grand circuit meet.

The barrier is used in starting running races and Steve believes that eventually the harness racing game will adopt it. The local starter has an idea, moreover, that he can improve on the type of barrier in vogue in running meets.

Steve thinks a somewhat different barrier device would be better adapted to harness racing and is giving the question considerable thought.

It is his opinion the barrier, if used in harness meets, should be shot from a gun or some similar contrivance, straight across the track. Barriers now in use, when released, snap upward in front of the horses, a factor which would doubtless frighten the wiggles until in time they became accustomed to it. However, if the wire, drawn taut, would snap quickly from one side of the track to the other, the trotters and pacers, whose heads held high, would hardly notice anything, he believes.

The advantage of the barrier plan, as Steve sees it, is not so much the fact a certain amount of unnecessary scoring would be eliminated, but the delay before each heat would be minimized to a great extent, the delay in question being due to mishaps such as tires coming off and other irritating things. The drivers take their sulkeys to the barn, take their own sweet time about making minor repairs, while everyone else, including other drivers and spectators, twiddle their thumbs and wait impatiently for the field to be assembled again.

KEEPING It Hot

Stove League Gossip

The battle for Sunday baseball freedom in that cradle of liberty, Philadelphia, now taking place, is of interest wherever ball fans have their habitat. Though you may never be in Philly on Sunday, and if you ever are you may not feel the immediate need of a game of ball to digest, the current effort to install baseball as a legal Sabbath sport in that city is highly important.

Sunday baseball in Philadelphia may do much to preserve the contour of the National League as at present constituted.

If Sunday ball were available to Quaker City folk the result would be immediate and gratifying to the bankroll of that city's National League entry, the Phillies.

The Phillies being on display only during the week days in the past, Quaker City folk have failed to come out in great droves to view their losing efforts. Instead, they waited for the champion A's to come home before asking the boss for a day off.

Now, with Sunday baseball on the half of those wanted summer Sundays the Phils would be at home and on display and the number of folk on holiday on Sundays in a city the size of Philly is terrific.

Of course, the A's would do additional business themselves, but the Connie Mackmen these days of their glory are quite prosperous, Sunday ball or no Sunday ball.

Poor National League attendance in recent years is one of the reasons there has been recurrent talk of shifting this National League franchise elsewhere—Baltimore, Milwaukee, Detroit and other big spots.

But with Sunday ball in Philly as in Cincinnati and Boston, other National League weak links, such talk would be just talk.

Lang Falcons Beat Springfield Five 29 - 18

DEFENSIVE PLAY IS FACTOR IN VICTORY OVER KIBLER QUINTET

Visitors Obtain Only Two Points During First Half Of Game

By PHIL FRAME

Unable to penetrate the closely-knit defense of the Lang Chevrolet Falcons, the vaunted Springfield Kibler Clothes basketball team bowed to the Xenia semi-pro quintet by a margin of 29 to 18 in a well-played game at Central High gymnasium Tuesday night.

The Falcons gave a remarkable defensive exhibition in the first half and the visiting team, with a number of former star Springfield High and Wittenberg College courtsters in its lineup, was limited to two points in the first sixteen minutes of play, Langs having a 10 to 2 advantage at halftime.

Two baskets by Joe Smittle, a pair of fielders by "Bulldog" Smith and a basket by Nolan Putnam gave the Falcons a ten-point lead before Davidson, Kibler center, hit the net from long range in the last sixty seconds of play in the first half.

After the rest period, the Falcons had things more their own way than ever during the early part of the second half. In the last seven minutes three replacements were made in the Falcon lineup and the Kibler basketweavers enjoyed a little scoring spree of their own, finding the net frequently from the middle distances.

The Springfield quintet gave a good account of itself but was handicapped by the lack of tall players. As a result the Falcon five was able to control the ball most of the time.

Nolan Putnam, who tallied nineteen points against Kibler's Weather-strips a week ago, continued his fine marksmanship, scoring four baskets and adding a free throw to top both teams in scoring with nine points. Joe Smittle, who played the entire game at a forward position for the Falcons, contributed eight points and Smith kicked in with seven. Inserting himself into the Springfield lineup toward the close of the last half, Feldmann, manager of the Kibler team, tallied six points on three baskets to lead his team in scoring. Line-ups:

ALLEGED KIDNAPER RETURNED TO XENIA TO SERVE SENTENCE

Pending an investigation to determine his correct age, Howard Whorbrey, Indianapolis, Ind., apprehended by Xenia police after he is alleged to have abducted a Dayton taxicab driver and held up a farmer east of Xenia January 6 was returned to Xenia from Dayton Tuesday night and lodged in the county jail to serve out a fine of $300 and costs and a ninety-day jail sentence imposed by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith for carrying concealed weapons.

Meanwhile, the youth's mother, who claims her son is only 17, will seek to obtain his birth certificate in Indiana, where he was born.

When arrested Whorbrey gave his age as 18 and Xenia police surrendered the youth to Dayton authorities for prosecution on additional charges of pointing firearms and making menacing threats. In the event it is definitely established Whorbrey is at least 18 years old, Dayton authorities plan to seek grand jury indictments against him. However, if the mother proves her son is under age, only delinquency charges may be placed against him in juvenile court.

Indiana authorities also want Whorbrey for parole violation as he was paroled from an Indiana reform school.

The youth's arrest was brought about when the taxicab driver he kidnapped escaped his captor by a ruse and summoned police.

WILMINGTON WINS FROM ANTIOCH FIVE

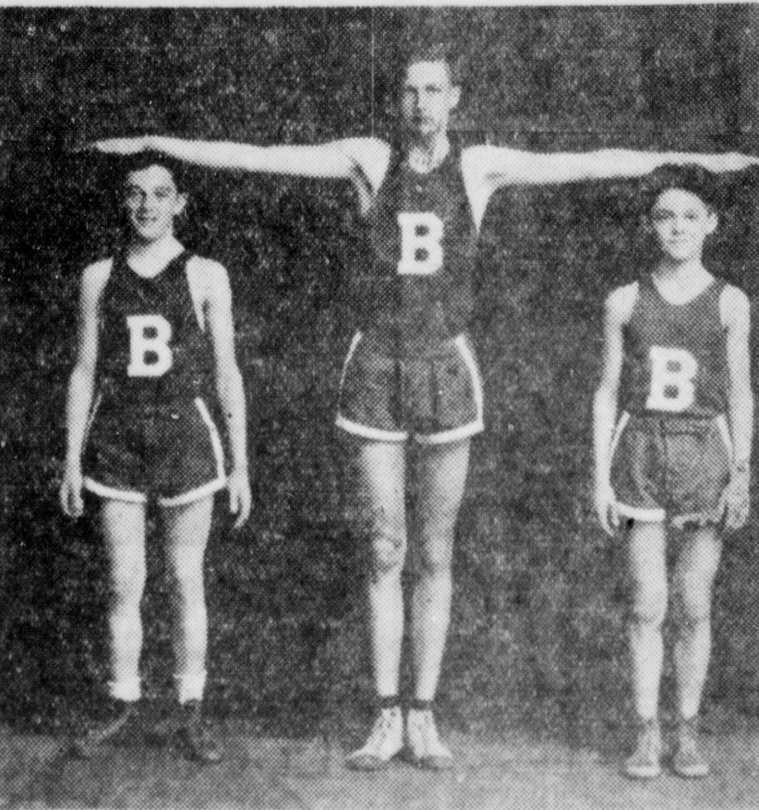

After making an unexpectedly good showing in the first half, Antioch College's Division "B" basketball quintet weakened in the second half and was defeated by Wilmington College basketball, 29 to 10 on the Quaker floor Tuesday night.

Wilmington's advantage at the half-way point was only 9 to 6, but Antioch was limited to four points in the second half as compared with twenty Wilmington added to its own total. The game was listlessly played.

The victory was the seventh straight for Wilmington and Antioch's fifth successive defeat.

Antioch cagers will face Cedarville College at Yellow Springs Saturday night.

LONG AND SHORT OF IT ON COURT TEAM

Here is the long and short of it at Central High gymnasium, a return contest with St. Mary's High of Urbana.

The player with the excessive height, towering above two of his teammates, is none other than John King, who measures six feet, three inches no matter whose yard stick you use. He is, as you have perhaps already guessed, the center on the St. Brigid quintet.

St. Brigid was defeated by St. Mary's on the Urbana floor two weeks ago, but the margin of victory was not great and the Xenia basketweavers are determined to even the score Thursday night, the contest being called for 8 o'clock.

So "Vance and DeBerry" is no more!

The singular is correct for reference is not to the two individuals who are very much alive, but to the famous battery they composed so long for Brooklyn, a combine probably forever ended.

Release by the Robins of the veteran Hank DeBerry destroys one of baseball's most famous batteries. The Robins, wanting young Ernie Lombardi from Oakland, Hank has been shipped down the river to the coast so that Brooklyn's pennant prospects may be brighter.

Since early last season DeBerry was doomed to go. Manager Wilbert Robinson in the heat of the last pennant campaign experiment- ed and for the first time in ten years over any considerable period Dazzy Vance hurried his speeder to a mitt that did not encase Hank DeBerry's left hand.

For years DeBerry decorated the roster of the Flatbush Fusiliers only because he did a better job of catching Vance than any other maskman in the business. But Hank had begun to slip and by mid 1930 it was young Lopez who squatted behind the plate when Vance went to the hill. DeBerry remained on the bench.

"Batteries for New Orleans," bawled a Southern League umpire on a late summer day in 1920, "Vance and DeBerry!" And thus was launched a baseball combination that endured for a decade.

Brooklyn scouts watched Vance hurl a few of his twenty-one victories in 1921 and the club grabbed him. But — "Better take DeBerry, too," the Brooklyn management was advised, "he knows more about catching Vance than anyone else in baseball." That's how Hank came to the National League.

Always, through their association, Vance was the star while DeBerry played foil. But he never seemed to mind. A story still told illustrates Hank's attitude to his position as shadow of the great Dazzy.

Back in 1929 when Vance's $25,000 salary was a National league topic, the Pirates saw Hank walking toward their bench.

"Here," chuckled Pie Traynor, "comes the other half of that $25,000 battery."

"Pie" answered the unperturbed Hank, settling down on the Pirate bench, "maybe Dazzy gets the top dough and maybe my pay isn't so hot, but this is a big sight better than being down on the farm rousing at 3 a. m. to wrestle with the cows."

The breakup of the Vance and DeBerry battery recalls that in a majority of like cases it was, strangely enough, the catcher who dropped out of the big time first.

This was so with the famous batteries as Mathewson and McCormick, Johnson and Street, Pennock and Schang, Wood and Redent, Alexander and Killefer, Walsh and Sullivan, and so on.

It might be a charming sentiment to chronicle that Vance and DeBerry formed the last of the great battery combinations of baseball. But it isn't true. There is another great pitcher-catcher combination doing duty in the big leagues today and it may be many years before it is dissolved.

This battery—Lefty Grove and Mickey Cochrane, the Athletics' star duo—is comparatively young in years and if the pair stick around as long as the Vance and DeBerry combine did, we'll have them on hand for another ten years.

"I Hope Your Example Will Compel The Adoption Of Sanitary Methods"

Chairman State Board of Health, State of Rhode Island

Rhode Island
Public Health Commission

THOMAS J. McLAUGHLIN, M. D.
WOONSOCKET, May 21st, 1930.

The American Cigar Company,
411 Fifth Avenue,
New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:—

Permit me to commend you for your crusade against the old-fashioned method of cigar making which involved the use of "spit" or "Saliva." There are many unsanitary processes still employed in industry which are very difficult to eliminate without the aid of industry itself.

Not only the public officer charged with the responsibility of improving conditions of health generally but every one immediately recognizes that the use of "spit" in the manufacture of cigars is not only unsanitary but has latent dangers to health of great magnitude. I feel it incumbent upon myself, therefore, as a public officer charged with protecting the public health to use this means of telling you that in campaigning against such a method of manufacture you are rendering a public service.

I sincerely hope that your example and your campaign will compel the abandonment of such methods of manufacture of cigars by the industry generally and the adoption by all of the manufacturers of sanitary methods in the manufacture of cigars.

You are at liberty to use this expression of my commendation in the furtherance of your laudable campaign for better sanitation.

Yours very truly,
Thos. J. McLaughlin, M.D.
Chairman State Board of Health
State of Rhode Island.

Faro Played with Shell Game Rules

The faro equipment shown in the center doesn't in the least resemble the three shells and peas which so often are conspicuous at fairs, circuses and carnivals. The fate of the $50,000 that Mrs. Myrtle Black-lidge Tanner (left), Collector of Internal Revenue at Chicago, put into a faro swindle made it look like the shell game, so police are hunting for Nicky Arnstein (left, below) as the mas-

Radio Creates Language All Its Own Scribe Finds

By MILDRED MASON

WITH the advance of radio comes the development of new words and phrases, which if you consult Mr. Webster, are not found in his dictionary. For instance, such words as microflight, announcer's listeners-in, dialers, meaning those who dial radio sets, and others have come into being during the age of the radio. All of which goes to prove that radio has a language of its own just as any other new invention has always had.

An interesting argument has come up as to the word "airlines", which has the exclusive right to it—aviation or radio? The word has frequent usage in aviation stories and while it is not to be found in dictionaries it is not considered bad English to use it. Recently it was announced to the radio world that Paul Whiteman was reported to have one of the best orchestras over the NBC "airlines". So it is up to aviation and radio to argue it out—which has exclusive right to the word.

SANDERSON—CRUMIT ON AIR

Again the team of Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit will be heard over the radio, Thursday evening they will present a program of popular selections, both solos and duets over station WCKY, Covington, at 9 o'clock.

FEATURE VARIED PROGRAM

The Brazilian American Coffee from 5 to 5:30 o'clock over the NBC network through WLW Cincinnati, will consist of a group of popular numbers by an orchestra, a group of solos sung in Spanish, a marimba duet and a violin solo. It is announced.

TO ADVISE BRIDES

Mrs. Emily Newell Blair, authoress and vice chairman of the Democratic national committee, will give advice to brides in a broadcast over WLW, Cincinnati, Thursday at 9:45 a. m. "It is the responsibility of the modern woman to develop the new home," Mrs. Blair says.

ORCHESTRAS ON AIR

If you want to dance Thursday evening just take a look at some of the good dance orchestras on the air through Cincinnati stations: WLW—John Jones and his Hotel Gibson Orchestra, 12 midnight and Wayne King and his orchestra, 1 to 1:30 o'clock; WSAI—Rudy Vallee and his Connecticut Yankees, 8 o'clock and B. A. Rolfe and his Lucky Strike Orchestra at 10 o'clock; WKRC—Bernie Cummins' Orchestra from St. Paul at 11:30 o'clock.

MAD LAUGHTER

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION—COPYRIGHT, 1930
A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY + by MILES BURTON

READ THIS FIRST:

The famous diamond necklace of Lady Hardway is stolen by Thomas Herdridge, a notorious crook, in London. Slinking along the street after the robbery, Herdridge is accosted by two men, who handcuff him, take the diamonds and promise to take him to Scotland Yard for questioning. On the way, the burglar suddenly leaps out of the car and escapes into the fog. To free himself of the handcuffs, Herdridge makes for the home of Ginger Murdock, another crook. He stumbles into a policeman. Herdridge explains the handcuffs by saying he had worn them on a bet. The policeman, however, takes him to a police station. A sergeant there does not recognize him. Herdridge tells a story of having a wife and children in Wigan, a suburb, although his dialect is London cockney. The sergeant summons Inspector Brooks, who recognizes Herdridge. Later Dick Penhampton is called to the Scotland Yard office of Sir Edric Conway, assistant police commissioner, to tell of the robbery to Inspector Brooks.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 5

"I'd better begin by explaining who I am," said Dick Penhampton. "I'm Lord Hardway's brother-in-law; he married my sister Daphne ten years ago. They live in one of those old-fashioned houses in Woodbridge Square. I don't suppose I need tell you anything about Hardway, Inspector. You probably know all about him."

The Inspector nodded. Lord Hardway, though never forcing himself into the public eye, was a fairly well-known man. He had held one or two minor parts in the Government, and his speeches in the House of Lords were always listened to with respect. Socially, Lady Hardway was a very popular hostess, and she and her husband were always to be seen at the more exclusive functions. While not overpoweringly rich, they possessed enough to gratify their excellent tastes, and to contribute largely to such charities as appealed to them.

Seeing the Inspector's nod, Dick continued, "As you probably know, my sister entertains a good deal. The house is usually full of people and that sort of thing. But, as it happens, they had no engagements last night, and rang me up to come and dine with them. I had better explain that I am a bachelor, and live in rooms just off Jernyn Street. They dine at a quarter past eight, and I meant to reach the house just before then. As a matter of fact, I was a few minutes late, owing to the fog. We did not sit down to dinner till twenty-five minutes past. After dinner, we went into Hardway's study—my sister usually sits there with him when she is alone—and stayed there for the rest of the evening. I left the house before midnight and walked home."

"Now, among the Hardway possessions is an extremely valuable, and, to my mind, exceedingly ugly diamond necklace. It is supposed to contain some of the stones of Marie Antoinette's famous necklace, which was stolen by the La Mottes. They, you remember, took it to pieces, and sold many of the stones in London. This necklace is kept in a concealed safe let into the wall in my sister's bedroom. There are two keys to this safe. One Hardway keeps on his bunch, the other is deposited at the bank. "Last night, when my sister was dressing for dinner, she borrowed Hardway's key and opened the safe to take out some other jewelry. The necklace was there in its case, and was seen by both my sister and her husband, who was in the room at the time. Hardway himself closed the safe and locked it under my sister's eyes. This would be at about a quarter to eight."

Inspector Brooks, listening attentively, formed a very good opinion of Dick Penhampton. He had a gift for stating the essential facts, without burdening his story with a mass of irrelevant detail. "My sister went to bed a few minutes after I left the house," continued Dick. "It was about half past twelve when she put the light out. She noticed nothing unusual in her room. She was called by her maid at eight o'clock this morning. On the maid drawing the curtains, she noticed that the hamp of the window had been wrenched open, and told my sister. Hardway immediately opened the safe with his key. The necklace and its case

The Theater

Unless something has happened between the time this is written and it reaches the printed page, physicians are making a determined effort to save the life of Harold Lloyd, Jr., infant son born to the screen comedian and his wife, two months before expected and weighing but four pounds.

The little fellow is at a Hollywood hospital, where a set of small white beads, inscribed with his name in full, was placed around his neck. The beads were taken to the hospital seven years ago when Gloria Lloyd was born but, naturally, couldn't be used at that time. The Lloyds have another child whom they adopted also a girl. Mrs. Lloyd was formerly Mildred Davis and was her husband's leading lady before their marriage, and perhaps still is, for all I know.

Carl Laemmle's smartly done revue, one of the best since the advent of talkies, will grace the screen at the Orpheum for three days starting Thursday night. It is swiftly-moving entertainment, with the black-out used advantageously to furnish a riot of rapidly moving scenes. Paul Whiteman and his band, of course, are featured, but the well-chosen cast of players also includes such well-knowns as John Boles, Laura La Plante, Jeanie Lang, Jeanette Loff, Stanley Smith, Glenn Tryon, Slim Summerville and others. John Murray Anderson, known widely for his stage presentations, directed this revue. We think you'll like it.

Tommy Neville also rushes in to announce "All Quiet on the Western Front," the picture that won first place in the Film Daily's "ten best" poll for 1930, will be un-wound at his theater for four days, February 5, 6, 7 and 8. It is a striking picture of the war as seen through the eyes of Eric Maria Remarque, one-time German soldier.

Lew Ayres is the boy who plays the part of "Paul," the principal in the Remarque film, and it was this

YOUTH PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE IN AUTO FATALITY

Marking the second prosecution arising from the highway accident in which Horace Ankeney, 80, former state legislator, was fatally injured New Year's eve, Carroll St. John, Cass St., Dayton, arraigned before Probate Judge S. C. Wright Tuesday afternoon on a reckless driving charge, entered a plea of not guilty. He was released on $100 bond, pending a hearing assigned for February 11. He was represented by his attorney, H. P. Williamson, Dayton.

St. John, held chiefly to blame for the accident in a verdict rendered by Coroner R. L. Haines, was the driver of an auto which crashed into the rear of a truck, parked along the highway, and which was not equipped with a tail light. Mr. Ankeney was standing behind the parked vehicle at the time, assisting the stranded driver with a load of horses, and was instantly killed. It is claimed St. John's eyesight is defective.

J. C. Wells, Columbus, driver of the truck, was fined $25 and costs in Probate Court Monday for operating a truck not equipped with a rear light.

Prosecuting Attorney Marcus McCallister announced Wednesday the January grand jury will be recalled for a recess session in Common Pleas Court February 9, not only to investigate circumstances of the Ankeney accident, but also other cases which have accumulated on the criminal docket since the first of the year.

F. R. Kelly, Delaware, O., gave an interesting talk on "The Other Side of the Circus" following dinner. Mr. Kelly, who was connected with Ringling Bros. circus for twenty years, described the inside workings of a circus that the public does not see. He also discussed the training of circus animals. Group singing was enjoyed by the guests during the evening.

EVANGELIST HEARD TUESDAY IN SERMON FOR CITY CHURCHES

REV. J. B. HOLLOWAY

All churches of the city were represented at "Community Night" services at the First Baptist Church Tuesday night when the Rev. J. B. Holloway, evangelist, preached on "Borrowed Religion."

George Shultz was in charge of the song service, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hoffman, Dayton.

The speaker drew an analogy between the five foolish virgins who failed to make proper preparation for their marriage feast and were shut out and the equally foolish people of today who have many advantages and opportunities for getting ready to meet Christ when He calls them by death or at His second coming.

"The all important thing," the speaker said, "is to be ready and watching, for ye know neither the day nor the hour wherein the Son of Man cometh."

Wednesday evening the Rev. Mr. Holloway will give an illustrative talk, appealing to the children. His subject for Thursday evening will be "Reasoning with God." The ordinance of baptism will be administered at this service and special music will be given by a glee club from Dayton.
